THE WEEKLY STAR.

We again remind our readers that we print one of the best weekly papers published in the United States at the low price of $1,25 a year. This paper is printed in a nest quarto A Brave Land Speculation-Douglas and form, containing eight pages, and will suit admirably for binding. It contains the cream of our daily paper, and is a weekly history of the world at Washington, in its news from all parts of the Union and the civilized world. Members of Congress and others wishing to apprise their friends of what is going on here, could not do better than procure this paper. Payment, in all cases, is required in ad-

SPIRIT OF THE MORNING PRESS. The Union republishes complimentary notices of the message from a great many newspapers, printed in all quarters of the country. The editor reviews the Secretary of War's report. The Union also contains an argument against the discontinuance of the Memphis navy-yard, and calls on Congress to make further investigation before finally act-Jug upon the subject. We are satisfied that if the House or Senate will ask the Navy Department for full information on the subject, they will not be long in making up their minds upon it.

The Intelligencer republishes, and indirectly approves of, the following suggestion, from "a Charleston paper :"

"We would recommend to Congress the enactment of a law authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to establish at each office throughout the United States a board of discount officers, whose duty it should be to loan out to any one the public funds of the government, not exceeding two-thirds the amount In the vaults of each office at six per cent., on ninety days promissory notes, secured by United States six per cent. stocks, at their par value in the market, provided said stock is troduction to me from Acting Governor Cumselling at par or above it.'

Upon the report of the Postmaster General's report the Intelligencer pays those who now have it in charge, the following well merited compliment:

We give, in this day's paper, all the material portions of the Postmaster General's Annual Report, omitting only the appendix and some of its tabular statements. This expose of the vast and ramified operations of that great beneficent Department of the Government on whose energy, sagacity, and vigitance the business of the country and its social and domestic comfort and satisfaction are so material- sibilities and to his arduous duties, and not a possible. ly dependent, will possess interest for almost line that he has written sustains, even by inevery intelligent citizen. We do not believe that the duties of any Department of the Gov. ernment are more arduous, or are discharged with more intelligence, assiduity, or success,

THE LIFE OF BARNUM .- E. K. Lundy, bookseller, of Georgetown, sends us an early copy of "The Life of P. T. Barnum, by himself, New York: published by Redfield, 1854." Now, if Barnum is a humbug, his book is not Inasmuch as it is an exceedingly interesting and agreeable collection of twaddle and small talk. Barnum is certainly a rare genius in his way, and has contrived, after all that has been written about it, to throw a capital picture of the extravagancies of his singular character into his pages.

PERSONAL.

.... Beale H. Richardson, editor of the Baltimore Argus, denies the statement of a Baltimore letter writer, charging him with re- known as the "squatter question?" This is a buking and insulting the Rev. Thos. H. Stockton for preaching a political sermon on Thanksgiving day. The editor says "the whole of this statement is an unmitigated falsehood, within striking distance of the new territory, without even a shadow to screen its author from the contempt of all honest men. Mr. Stockton did not preach any Thanksgiving sermon on the occasion referred to in the legitimate and regular business, on the one Liberty street Church, or anywhere else to our side, and the speculators, fancy town-makers, knowledge. WASHINGTON NEWS AND GOSSIP. A Settler.—Herewith we append a letter from John W. Forney, to the editors of the Star,, which is a crushing refutation of the very last" roorback against him?

TO THE EDITORS OF THE EVENING STAR GENTLEMEN:-The following article is copied rom the New York Times, of Friday; and I ask a brief space in your paper to refute | Gen. Canrobert Wounded-Great Slaughter.

Forney's Interests in Nebraska.

[From the Cleveland Leader, Dec. 1.] Everybody likes late news, fresh news, startling, mmense news. Well, we have an "item" that may make some people store and pull their eyes open ome. Our sources of information are direct, and we believe reliable. The collatteral and circumstantial evidence thoroughly confirms its truth.

It seems that a copartnership was formed last Summer between Stephen Arnold Douglass, of Illinois; Bird Chapman, ex-Special Mail Agent; Forney, editor Washington Union, and Clerk of House of Representatives; Joseph W. Gray, Postmaster of Cleveland, and William Green, of Elmyria, Ohio and one other party, whose name we forget. This Company of political bretheren and immacu ate patriots have secured the refusal of a $50,000 purchase of Indian Missionary Reservation Lands n Nebraska Territory: $5,000 have been paid down as forfeit moeey, in case the Company should not pay the residue at the time stipulated. Since the death of Governor Burt, his Secretary, Cummins is acting Governor pro tem., until the president fills clined. Money is unchanged. the vacancy. The influence of the land jobbers foresaid is being concentrated on the President to induce him to appoint Cummins permanent Governor of the Territory. The understanding or bar gain is, that in case the Company aforesaid succeed in having him returned as Governor, he agrees to locate the seat of Government at the village of Belle viile, on the lands purchased by the Company, which as a matter of course, will vastly enhance their value, to the emolument of the said Douglas, Grey k Co. The honesty and morality of the bargain and sale as a matter we will not stop here to review. It is enough to know that it is par excellence democratic, &c., &c.

In the first place, I have entered into no copartnership for any such purpose, with any of the parties named, or with any others 'I never conversed with Judge Douglas in reference to the subject alluded to, or to any similar ob-Plaindealer, in my life; know him but by reputation as an able editor. I have never seen or heard from Mr. Chapman for a year. I never saw or met any such person as "William Green, of Elmyra, Ohio." A gentleman named Col. Barton Green bore a letter of ining, and while in this city as one of the party escorting the remains of Governor Burt, ments.

I raised $300 for him, to assist him in defray

Deta ing the expenses of the removal of those remains to South Carolina, for which he gave a draft upon Governor Cumming. Not a cent of money have I advanced, or contracted to pay hereafter, in connection with any such copartnership or "scheme." So far as Acting Governor Cumming is concerned, I regret that he is not here to defend himself, and to sustain this statement. That he will be able to repel all aspensions upon his official and personal character I firmly believe. He has written to me freely in reference to his respon- commerce may be inconvenienced as little as erence, the charges now preferred against him. His last letter says :

"I never desired the office of Governor. I became acting Governor by an act of Providence, and I intend to do the duties of the office honestly and fearlessly, so that during my administration no friend need be ashamed

Pursued by calumny, and hunted by men I never injured in my life, I have refrained from noticing the myriad slanders of my enemies; but this fabrication is too gross to be passed over.

Yours, truly,
J. W. FORNEY. Washington, December 9, 1854. More About the Recent Election in Kansas We have very late and reliable advices from the territory of Kansas, which put us in pos- importance to the allies. session of many interesting facts concerning the canvass for a delegate in Congress that recently occurred there. It seems that the overshadowing question was what is there dispute between the bona fide squatters-the settlers from all the States surrounding or who go there to seek homes and prosperity by cultivating the soil or pursuing some other and, we fear, more or less persons in Government employment, on the other side. Whitquestion was not discussed by him in the can vass, it not being an issue at that time prop erly before them. He was known, however, to be a Southern man, and in favor of proas a believer in the doctrine that slaves could be legally carried there now. His opponent, Mr. Flenniken, was supported by the interests named above as opposed to the squatters, and also by the Yankee emigration societies' agents, and as many of their people as they could influence. To the canvas, taking anti-Slavery ground and introducing the slave question in all his addresses to the people. He was overwhelmingly United States, is, we believe, a native of this frained as far as possible from mooting the slavery question in the stump, his triumph preted as a palpable expression of the public will to make the States's constitution slave holding, when they came to frame it. The consin and Iowa bear an intense dislike to those sent out by the New York and New England Societies, on the ground that the latter are gone to the new territory to do the bidding of masters in the East. They are perhaps the ing high positions, and enjoying largely the fiercest enemies of abolitionism there, and most of them voted against Mr. Flenniken, because he was supported by abolition in-

Nevertheless, we are under the conviction that it has been determined whom to appoint, and that the appointment will be very shortly

BALTIMORE CORRESPONDENCE.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8-p. m. I have read in your paper the letter of my friend, the Rev. Mr. Myers, in which he excuses himself, rather pliantly, for having preached the sermon, on Thanksgiving day, to which allusion was made in one of my previcus communications. Certain it is, he has, sway. (in unclassic phrase,) "acknowledged the corn." A starting point is one-half the bat-tle. My reverend friend concedes the fact that the sermon was obnoxious to some of his hearers. It will be my province, on a future occasion, to show that said discourse wes less pleasing to the major portion of his congregation than the pious orator is induced, by his own approving fancy, to believe. There are other points which I may discuss with him, but suffice for the present. I appreciate his mon, who, somewhere, laconically repudiates the spirit of "vain boasting." There are also various scriptural passages which inculcate the benign quality of Christian charity—
"love thy neighbor as thyself," do unto others as you would the standard of the borrowed advice from our mutual friend Solo-6,300 16 others as you would they should do unte you, 85 with many other sentiments worthy an occasional reference. More of this anon. I observe that, in connexion with the 12,684 31 above matter, some incautious correspondent dec 8-8t has very erroneously made it appear that the Rev. Thomas Stockton was the minister who preached the obnoxious discourse. Nothing could be more unjust and unfair than to thus belie so good a man. Mr. Stockton's benevo lence is too pure and his judgment too sound to perpetrate so gross an outrage. The party who has thus openly vilified this excellent man must be void of conscience or common respect if he do not openly and unhesitatingly make the amende honorable.

I have been told there is quite a breeze at present in the Know Nothing municipal wigwam, and that the several branches of the administration are somewhat at loggerheads. Mayor Hinks, they say, is being a little refractory. He has overstepped that patient unassuming diffidence which dwelt upon his innocent brow prior to the press of applicants for offices, and, Napoleon like, plants his imperial foot upon an independent platform. He asserts that he did not seek the office; that he asked no man for his vote; that he made no pledges and does not consider himself indebted to any specific party for the position he holds. The voice of the sovereign people put him there, and to that voice only will he listen. He does feel bound by party, nor subservient to cliques. His appointments shall be made solely upon the basis of merit, and that Demo-crats, Whigs, Know Nothings, and all, are alike of his family, and equally entitled to favor or subject to frown. This pronunciamento, it is further said, by the outside barbarians, has brought upon his devoted, official head a perfect storm of imprecations, more furious than thunderbolts from the arm of Jove. The Natives are discomfitted, and the whole machinery of office-seeking has been knocked into "pi," even before it fairly reached the press. I do not vouch fully for the above humble rumors, and am willing to intersperse them with some grains of doubt, but there is something floating upon the breese which is certainly less harmonious than the dulcet sounds of the Æolian harp. Perhaps the harp of Erin, in endeavoring to triumph over the inharmonious rhapsodies, has been struck on a discordant key and echoed those wailing notes. Joking aside; if Mr. Hinks ac's with independence and does his duty free from intriguing cliques, he will do well. I learn that there is considerable competi tion for the agency of the McDonough estate. This office or commission is rather a sinecure, and pays about $2,500 per annum. Some have hinted that it may possibly be given to the author of "Captain Canot"

Quite a forgery has recently some to light in our city. The perpetrator is Jacob F. Kridler, a master builder, in the upper section of the city. The papers represent the amount forged to be over $6,000; but I learn it is not above $4,000. He has vamosed, and was last heard of in Hanover, Pennsylvania.

I learn that Wm. Meade Addison, Esq., United States district attorney, has made the very handsome donation of $600 to the Irish Benevolent Society of this city. The sum above named came to him in the shape of a fee in consideration of an important case in which he was engaged, and he generously appropriated it to the charitable purpose named. Many a blessing will come upon him from the henest Irish heart for this praiseworthy act. henest Irish heart for this praiseworthy act.
